Speaker: Tashi Rabgey - Rhodes Scholar

"CHINA TIBET MACHIK"

Tashi Rabgey was the first Tibetan Rhodes Scholar. A former UC Literary and Athletic Society president, she completed law degrees at Oxford and Cambridge universities and earned a PhD at Harvard University.

A research professor of International Affairs and director of the Tibet Governance Project at George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs, she was named a Public Intellectual Program fellow by the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations and is currently writing a book about the need to reframe the Sino-Tibetan dispute.

As director of the Research Initiative on Multination States at the Elliott School, Rabgey works on asymmetric governance in contemporary statehood and has assembled a global network of researchers who are re-examining the problem of power sharing and regional autonomy in cases ranging from the Basque Country (Spain) and South Tyrol (Italy), to Iraqi and Syrian Kurdistan and Western Sahara (Morocco).

With her sister, Losang Rabgey (BA 1993 UC), she is the co-founder of Machik, an organization that has supported the education and capacity building of thousands of young Tibetans. Machik is a U.S.-based non-profit, non-governmental organization whose mission is to grow a global community committed to a stronger future for Tibet. Its work focuses primarily on civic engagement, gender equity, and social innovation.
