Club Meeting ~ At Celebrations

Speaker: Peter Jennings
“Paragliding is not Parasailing”

Peter Jennings, the webmaster for PROBUS Global, has visited 130 countries and lived in many. Peter, a physicist, inventor, entrepreneur, and traveler, created the first commercial home computer game, MicroChess, which sold over 10,000 copies and made software commercially viable. He was a 'digital nomad' before the term became popular, visiting 130 countries while writing software. In retirement, he continues his travel, seeking the perfect paragliding flight. For 17 years, Peter pursued his passion for flying, taking his paraglider around the world in search of the perfect flight.

This entertaining talk covers the many ways to fly without a motor using just the rising air currents to stay aloft. Be prepared for funny stories and frightening close calls.

The optional lunch will be at the Olympia.
